UR Demolition Awaits Bids

Bids on the demolition of buildings in the downtown urban renewal area will be opened Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Cameron Urban Renewal Office.

A. W. McCullin Sr., UR executive director, said eight demolition companies have picked up plans for bidding on the demolition.

All properties have been purchased in the urban renewal area with the exception of four, McCullin said. Three of these are in Block 14 or the mall parking area.

First payment of property was made on June 30 to Mr. and Mrs. Grady Houston. Payments on ten additional properties has been made. The agency is making payments as the abstracts are processed.

McCullin said it may be necessary to purchase additional properties should the owners not rehabilitate them.

Construction plans for three new buildings are being finalized, McCullin added, and a number of rehabilitation plans are being worked out with engineers, architects, and builders. An effort is being made to reduce costs and still comply with all codes.

Salvage material with the buildings will be sold to the demolition company. The Agency will not own any salvage, McCullin said, but it may be purchased from the successful bidder.

"We are hoping to begin demolition about the middle of July," McCullin said.

He said that the agency is planning a trip to Austin with some of the business people involved in new construction to look at construction which might meet their needs.

"If there is any group, church or civic, that might be interested in garage-type sales, clothes or such items, on a 50-50 basis, please contact our Agency," McCullin said.

Freak Accident Injures Two Cameron Men

Two Cameron men were injured, one seriously, Friday morning when the pickup they were riding in struck a telephone pole guy cable, shearing off the top of the cab.

Charlie Ernest Holland and Freddie Blackwell, both employees of Eplen Furniture Store, were injured in the accident.

According to investigating highway patrolmen Mike Giles and Jerry Randall, the accident happened at 9:30 a.m. on Farm to Market Road 2269 about three miles north of Cameron.

Some telephone linemen were working on phone lines along the road. As the pickup approached, a bracing pole snapped, letting the overhead guy cable drop just as the truck drove by. The wire sheared off the top of the pickup, which ran off the road into a field.

The men were taken to a local hospital and Holland was transferred to a Temple hospital, where reports said he was scheduled for surgery.

Both men suffered facial and arm cuts, and Holland was the more seriously injured, with a broken arm and deep cuts. Blackwell was treated and released.

The men were making a delivery for the store when the accident occurred.

Reports said a lineman was also slightly injured when he fell off a pole at the scene, and another lineman was treated for shock.

MHMR Center To Survey Milam County

The Bell County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center, Inc. has been notified by the Governor's office that a $6,188 grant under the Developmental Disabili. es Act has been awarded.

The grant will enable the Center to complete a comprehensive survey of Bell, Coryell, Hamilton, Mills and Milam counties to identify all children and adults who suffer from a developmental disability (primarily mental retardation, epilepsy and cerebral palsy.)

The survey will also seek to identify all agencies who offer services to the handicapped and a directory of such agencies will be compiled.

"This data is needed by all planning agencies of the State and County as well as by all the school districts in the 6 county region in order to plan future programs and services," according to Ronald Moen, executive director.

The project is scheduled to be completed in three months. Volunteers in all six counties will be used to compile data and contact the various agencies and groups.

"This will be strictly a local project of self-help so that future programs can be tailored to the needs of each county rather than being designed by someone in Washington," Moen said.

Volunteers who are interested in working on the survey should call the Center at 939-1801, in Belton.

Brand Registration Bill Goes Into Effect August 30

County livestock owners must re-register all marks and brands every 10 years according to Texas Senate Bill 249.

Wayne Weiser, county clerk, said the bill goes into effect August 30. He said the last re-registration of brands and marks was in 1943.

'Open-End' Summary...

Surveys continue to come into Herald offices and a summary of "open-end" recommendations by readers will appear in Thursday's edition.

Many of the interests are expected, but some new insights into what residents, old and new, would like here and in the Milam area are coming forth.

It is a most enlightening response. And it should make good reading to public officials, businessmen and people who put things into motion, who provide the means for new developments and who encourage a look forward.

Glad You Survived...

The Fourth of July weekend is all but history and the traffic count is likely to exceed the 48 deaths by this reading.

City and state patrolmen throughout the Central Texas area plead for driver safety during such a holiday, but the carnage continues. What would it be if people weren't bombarded with warnings of heavy traffic?

Somehow, warning people to drive safely, though each year more are killed on U. S. highways than have died in Vietnam, falls on all indifferent ears. The trip's the thing.

It would be safe to say you had a good Holiday Fourth if you are reading this. It means that you are one of millions who missed the fatal miscalculation which would kill 48 persons like you on Texas highways and maim hundreds of others.

We're glad you're still with us.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

REP. WILLIAM G. BRAY (Ind.) ". . .We are now close to the 200th anniversary of the independence of the American Republic. . .

"Two hundred years since the Declaration of Independence--seems so long. Yet, we are inclined to forget it is really very close. We are still infants among many nations of the world in the strict terms of time. . .

"I once heard it said disparagingly of a country noted for its instability that "They do not have a history, they only have a past". . .

"John Adams, in 1777, wrote a stern injunction to the ages of Americans yet unborn:

'Posterity! You will never know how much it cost the present generation to preserve your freedom! I hope you will make good use of it. If you do not, I shall repent in heaven that I ever took half the pains to preserve it!'

"It is a pleasure to report that today we are moving in the right direction to give this bicentennial the attention it deserves. Beginning this year, at least one special commemorative stamp will be issued annually on the 4th of July, bearing on the Revolution. A team of experts is hard at work in the Library of Congress, with the ultimate goal of compiling an 8,000 item bibliography of the Revolutionary War source material. We can expect beginning at any time -- in fact, it has already begun -- a flood of new books dealing with the period. . .

"So listen for the fifes; hark to the muffled mutter of the drums. They can call up for you, if you let them, that which no one can ever take away from you: Your national heritage given to you by the men who shaped this Nation... Let them always continue to play, in your mind, for we are that posterity to whom John Adams spoke. . .

On Sunday, February 26, 1775, General Gage sent a force of British regulars from Boston to Salem, to try and seize some supplies. They failed; the people of Salem, unafraid, denied them passage over a drawbridge. . .It's worth noting here, that on the march back from Salem, the British fifes and drums played the tune "The World's Turned Upside Down," Alpha and Omega; it would be heard again at Yorktown, Virginia, where Cornwallis surrendered to Washington. . .

"So listen, listen, closely, for the shrilling of the fifes and the roll of the drums, that heralded our birth and still pace our march on the road of human history and destiny. For these things, like the country whose heritage they are, fade and die, only if the people let them. And when and if they die, the end of the country is not far behind."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Those Americans, including the new 18-year-old voters, who fail to hear the fifes and drums on July 4th, will lack more than a hearing deficiency.--J.C.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

I had always thought that "Classified" was something you paid for in a newspaper's Want-Ad section and wanted people to read, but like everybody else in the country who has seen a newspaper or watched television recently I've learned that Classified means something the Pentagon considers secret and doesn't want anybody else to read.

However in the uproar over the publication of the Vietnam classified documents from 47 volumes (some people wonder what the Pentagon needs with 50 or 60 billion dollars a year but they don't understand the details; have you ever figured up how many rubber stamps it takes to stamp 15 sets of 47 volumes containing 7,000 pages with the words Top Secret-Classified?) there's one point it looks like everybody is missing.

The point is, how come the Pentagon is the only outfit with the right to stamp something Classified and thereby make it against the law for outsiders to see it?

Personally I'd like to see this right extended, even if a man has to buy his own rubber stamp. Probably could get one at a government surplus sale.

For example, take a man's credit rating. If anything ought to be classified, that should. When a mail order house wants you to buy something on credit and you'd like to too but it first insists on seeing your credit rating, you ought to have the right to say you're sorry but that information is classified but go ahead and fill the order.

If there was some way I could stamp my bank balance Classified and keep some bookkeeper or computer from looking at it, I wouldn't care how high taxes got or how far inflaction went.

Boxed in with a hard question about where you were Saturday night? Mark it Classified and restore peace in the family.

The Pentagon is on to a good thing and I'm in favor of passing it around.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Texas Industrial Story Presented To Germany

AUSTIN

Texas emerged as an international power at a recent "Invest in the U.S.A." conference in Munich, Germany through efforts of Texas Industrial Commission officials.

Sponsored by the German Institute of Economic Affairs, the conference was prompted by a growing demand for expanding German industry to the United States.

After presenting the Texas industrial story at the meeting, Texas Industrial Commission Executive Director Jim Harwell and Jim Havey, director of international trade, expressed satisfaction at the German industrialists' positive response.

"They are shying away from the Eastern seaboard because Texas has the ports, resources and growing room industry requires," Harwell said. "We are convinced that Texas is becoming a front-lin international trade power."

At least 75% of the companies attending the conference indicated that they would contact the Commission for specific information, Harwell said.

More than 200 West German and English industrial leaders attended the conference sessions exploring U.S. investments, legal procedures, taxes and other corporate areas. In addition to state agencies, the U.S. Department of Commerce also cooperated with German experts in conducting the meet.

Export development came under conference scrutiny, and the Texas team assessed the German market as "virtually wide open."

"The expanding German economy is ripe for importing Texas products," Harwell said. "Texas manufacturers are limited only by their vitality and ingenuity."

Harwell said a trade mission to cement West German industrial contacts has reached the drawing board. Similar Commission efforts in Mexico and Australia netted new industry for the state while expanding its export markets.

First Hovercraft Service Starts At Border

By William Parry Reuter Correspondent

SAN DIEGO

The first hovercraft service in the United States has been launched from here to Tijuana in Mexico in an attempt to lighten the load at the busiest American border crossing.

Five days a week the trip across the border is easy, but on weekends and holidays it is a different story. American tourists, on the hunt for Mexican souvenirs, bullfights and night clubs, sometimes have to wait in lines three or four miles long at the border.

The return trip at night is worse. Cars and tempers tend to boil over as drivers wait up to eight hours while U.S. Customs officials make stringent checks.

Last year 29,343,390 people crossed the border from Tijuana into the United States -- an increase of 7.2 per cent over the previous year.

Officials at the Tijuana Plaza monumental bullfight ring, searching for a way to get their prospective customers out of the traffic jams and into the ring, hit on the idea of the hovercraft.

They got the craft from a Canadian company which had used it to skim over northern ice and tundra. Special ramps were constructed at San Diego's former ferry landing and on the Beach at Tijuana, a stone's throw from the bullring.

Finally, after a series of safety tests the hovercraft was lauched on its maiden skim with 35 passengers on board. Hovering four feet above the water, it covered the trip at an average of 60 miles an hour.

A 1,000 horsepower Rolls-Royce jet engine powered the vehicle, building an air cushion with a nine-foot, 12 blade fan which gyrated underneath the hull.

On the first few trips, engine trouble developed and the service, planned for nine trips a day, was halted. But a new engine was delivered and installed and the hovercraft is now fulfilling its original quota of trips.

Kubiak Raps Request For Insurance Rate Hike

Rep. Dan Kubiak says he will be attending the insurance hearings set for Wednesday of this week at Austin.

In his June 25 newsletter, Kubiak said the large insurance companies will come before the State Board of Insurance and ask for another 25 percent increase.

"Most insurance companies cannot prove that they are losing money, but they use the double standard of bookkeeping which this state allows," he said.

"We in the Legislature tried desperately to change the practice, but the leadership killed this legislation this past session," he continued. "On one set of books, they show a hugh profit; then on the other, they show a loss which of course is the set they present to the State Board of Insurance."

Rep. Kubiak said he has facts he will present pointing out that traffic accidents have decreased on a per capita basis.

"The insurance companies are pricing the coverage off the market, and people simply will not be able to have any sort of coverage," he continued.

In the upcoming special of the legislature, Kubiak says he will again introduce legislation for competitive rates by companies on identical coverage and will puch for group auto insurance rates.

"As you may have guessed by now," he said, "this is one of the strongest lobbies in Austin, and that is the reason good legislation never gets out of committees where the leadership has control."

Rep. Kubiak said he is "uncertain" at this time which position he will seek, but will announce soon which elective seat he will seek in the next election.

It's off to the races or an afternoon of bridge or shopping for clever homemakers who are cooking their dinner in the new Reynolds Brown-In-Bag cooking bags. This new transparent bag, made for roasting meat and poultry—fish, too—lets heat rays penetrate and brown the food beautifully. At the same time, it holds in natural juices and moisture, making the meat tender and juicy.

All you do is put the bag in a pan, slip the food in the bag, add seasonings or whatever the recipe calls for, and close the bag. Punch six holes in it to let out expanding air and moisture and then put it into a preheated oven.

There it will cook cozily and gently without tending and when you come home the food will be ready for the table. Not a pan will be soiled, the oven will be as clean as when cooking started, and your family will exclaim with amazement at the delicious food.

Try this recipe for a real gourmet Leg of Lamb.

Brown-In-Bag Leg of Lamb

6-8 lb. leg of lamb
1 large clove garlic, diced
2 teaspoons salt
coarsely ground pepper
1 teaspoon herbs, blended for meat cooking
1 small onion, cut up
1 stalk celery, cut up
¼ cup vermouth or tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons currant or mint jelly

Have the butcher cut off three chops and the shank end of lamb and freeze these for another meal. Trim excess fat from lamb. Preheat oven to 350°F. Crush garlic into salt with back of spoon and combine with pepper and herbs. Rub lamb all over with this mixture. Place Brown-In-Bag in pan with sides about two inches high. Slip the lamb into the bag and add all other ingredients except jelly. Close bag with twist tie, and poke six holes in top with tip of paring knife. Cook for 2-2½ hours or until meat theremometer inserted through bag into thickest part of lamb registers 175°F. for medium done. Using potholders, remove carefully from the oven. To make gravy, snip one corner of bag, tip pan and pour juices into saucepan. Skim off fat. Add the jelly and simmer until slightly reduced. Transfer roast to carving board and serve with the warm sauce.

Living Costs Rise Again

WASHINGTON -- The Consumer Price Index rose 0.5 percent in May to 120.8 (1967-100), the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

Higher prices for apparel, used cars, homes and postage accounted for half the increase. The May CPI was 4.4 percent above a year ago.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the May rise was 0.6 percent. This compares with increases of 0.2 to 0.3 percent in each of the first 4 months of this year. In the three months ending in May, the CPI rose at an annual rate of 4.2 percent. The three month rate was 2.8 percent in March and in April.

The annual rate of change for the 6 months ending in May was 4'1 percent -- higher than the 3.6 percent rate for the 6 months ending in April, but below the 6.5 percent rate in the 6 months ending in May of last year.

Food prices rose 0.2 percent in May after seasonal adjustment, much less than in February, March, and April. Prices of nonfood commodities and services, however, increased more than in the preceding 3 months.

Prices of food purchased in grocery stores rose 0.2 percent in May, compared with increases of 1.1 percent in March and 0.9 percent in April. Increases in fruit and vegetable, and beef prices were smaller than in recent months and less than usual for May.

Pork prices declined more seasonally. Chicken and egg prices also declined but much less than they usually do in May.

Prices of dairy products, and restaurant meals and snacks away from home continued to advance.

Prices of commodities other than food, which usually show no change in May, rose 0.7 percent, considerably more than in the first 4 months of this year. Higher prices for apparel, which posted their largest seasonally adjusted increase since August 1968, homes, and used cars were responsible for about three-fourths of the rise in nonfood commodities. Prices of new cars and gasoline increased, instead of declining as they usually do in May.

Charges for consumer services rose 0.6 percent, the largest rise since January of this year when a similar increase was recorded. A fourth of the May rise in services resulted from higher postal rates. The index for local transit fares showed no increase.

Mortgage interest rates continued to decline but much less than in the preceding three months. Property taxes, and charges for washing machine repairs, drycleaning services, shoe repairs, and movie admissions rose more than in recent months.

Approximately 43,000 workers will receive cost-of-living escalator adjustments based on the May U. S. city average Consumer Price Index or one of the individual city indexes.

About 23,000 workers will receive wage increases based on the national index.

You Don't Say . .

GALLANT

correctly if you are pronouncing it GAL unt and if you are referring to a man who or manner which is chivalrously attentive; a man who is amorous in a courtly or dashing way, gaily colorful or showy; GALLANT attire.

GALLANT prounced guh LANT is correct for the above meaning.

GALLANT, pronounced GAL unt, means possessing spirit and courage; intrepid; brave; GALLANT soldiers.

This is an excellent example of the necessity of KNOWING words if one would express himself clearly, interestingly and colorfully.

Seaman Helsley Cited For Service Aboard USS Hoel

Seaman John Helsley, son of Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Helsley of Cameron, received a commendation for volunteer emergency service while serving aboard the USS Hoel. The commendation said in part:

"While our ship was mooring on 17 May, in Pago Pago, American Samoa, a manila mooring line became fouled to such an extent that further use of the shaft was not feasible until the line was removed.

"With no hesitation, you volunteered to join a group of divers from ship's company. With your help, the group successfully completed the task of removing the mooring line from the starboard shaft. The diving task was accomplished using personal gear, during day and night hours, and in unfamiliar waters while wind and rain caused adverse diving conditions."

Schillers Pharmacy 58 Years Service

No one can remember a time when there was no pharmacy at 106 S. Houston, where E. O. Schiller Pharmacy is located.

Since 1885, a drug store or pharmacy, 58 of those years Schiller's, has dispensed reliable service and first-line products at this location.

Today, E. O. Schiller Pharmacy is a two-pharmacist drug, gift and notion center, its wares modern amidst a modern lighted building and antique shelving.

E. O. Schiller, Jr., operates the well stocked center for professional pharmacy and services bearing both his and his father's name, who assists in the daily operation.

Since remodeling in 1962, exclusive lines in cosmetics for men and women and fragrances for women at Schiller's now include Helena Rubenstein, Faberge and English Leather.

Gift items include a Justin line of billfolds and related leather goods and the Parker line of pens, pencils and ballpoints for the discriminating shopper.

Pharmaceuticals worked from doctors' prescriptions are the finest and carefully prepared by Schiller staff pharmacists.

The list of brand-name items for home and family use is endless along Schiller shelves. Reliability and value are first considerations on any item stocked at Schiller's.

A full line of pocketbooks and magazines gives the reader a mini - library to choose from. Separate racks for detective, Western and fiction and non-fiction allow ample selection on the latest novel or action-packed detective novel. Non - fiction books are quite available.

Another Schiller feature is photo finishing service where black-and-white film is processed and ready for the customer in two day minimum and color film in five-day minimum. Prices are resonable. Quality is guarranteed.

Oscar Schiller, himself employed at Schiller's since 1915 serves on customers and Mrs. Clara Biskup assists buyers needing gifts and personal notions throughout the store.

Both Schillers produce prescriptions to doctors' requirements.

They can also point to an area behind the present store, a half level higher, where Drs. Epperson and Sapp used to office. After World War II, the space once occupied by medical doctors and building owners was closed off from active use.

Ed Schiller, Jr., completed his degree in pharmacy at the University of Texas College of Pharmacy before going into the service. He returned after the War to enter the pharmacy profession in the family store.

And this Schiller Pharmacy is a family store which serves needs of each member of your family in a tradition that continues with pride.

Burns Common When Campers Are Careless

Serious injury due to burns is becoming increasingly common as more presons seek rest and relaxation in the outdoors, according to TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE magazine.

An article in the June issue of the magazine cites careless handling of fuel, especially gasoline, as the most frequent cause of serious burns. The magazine warns readers to be extremely cautious when handling flammalbe liquids.

Another hazard, according to the magazine, is flammable clothing. A State of New York information leaflet said more than 150,000 persons in the U.S. are burned each year when their clothing catches fire, and children and older persons are the most frequent victims.

Some new fabrics are not only highly combustible but also form molten globs which burn deeply into the flesh.

The article says weight and weave of the material determines how easily it will catch fire and how fast it will burn. Tightly woven and heavy fabrics burn more slowly than loosely woven light fabrics of the same material.

Full or long, loose garments can catch fire before the wearer feels the heat and is aware there is any danger.

When clothing catches on fire, the worst thing the victim can do is run, according to the magazine. Running fans the flames to greater intensity. By rolling on the ground or floor and wrapping up in a heavy blanket, coat or carpet, the victim can extinguish the flames.

The first treatment for badly burned persons should be for shock, according to the magazine. The victim should be laid down and kept warm. No attempt to clean the wound or to remove bits of cloth from the wound should be made. Cold water applied to most burns will lessen the pain and help prevent further tissue damage. but under no circumstances should grease, butter or any other ointment be applied to burns. The burn should not be touched with anything except a sterile dressing.

TANE To Sponsor Workshop

A drug education workshop sponsored jointly by Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE) and Baylor University will be held in Waco, August 5-7, 1971 for teachers, church leaders, and lawmen.

The three - day meeting will consist of seven sessions, each with a major presentation of drug education information followed by workshops divided into twelve categories.

"We have arranged for top men in their fields to make the content presentations, and for well qualified men and women to lead the individual workshops where we'll get down to practical applications," said Albert F. Tucker, Executive Director of TANE.

In addition to the latest facts being given, followed by individual workshops those attending the workshop will have opportunities to react to the methodology experts and relate their own problems and experiences in talk back sessions.

COLLEGE STATION

Basic elements of a school board public relations program are described in the June "Texas School Board Journal" by Texas A&M University education personnel.

Dr. Paul R. Hensarling, educational administration professor, and Robert B. Maler, graduate student from Cameron schools, wrote the article "The Board and Public Relations."

The authors say public relations basics for a school board include reporting to the public, using citizens' committees to inject community attitudes, and cooperation with other groups such as those involved in law enforcement, social work, health and recreational programs.

Basic principles of public relations for a board also include representation of the people -- not a special group, political party or partisan group.

Other techniques such as open meeting and records, school program interpretation, fiscal responsibility and a body politic (board members are responsible only when in session) are discussed.

Maler, formerly of Sealy, is working on a Ph.D.
